C

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 2-61 are allowed.

4. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The present invention has been deemed allowable for its unique manner of conducting negotiations between human users, including "the analysis of terms comprising understanding the purpose of the terms, formatting the terms according to the purpose, and placing them into user supplied context" and the "automated negotiations engine further recognizing any changes in the terms and storing in the storage space the terms each terminal proposes, and recognizing the terminal to which the proposed terms are being sent as the indicated terminal, and sending terms to the indicated terminal, the automated negotiations engine indicating any changes in the terms until a set of terms is acted upon in a final manner" (variations of these limitations are recited throughout independent claims 2, 17, 32, and 47). The limitation "the analysis of terms comprising understanding the purpose of the terms, formatting the terms according to the purpose" has been interpreted to reflect the fact that when a user changes one of the negotiation terms, the negotiations engine does not just merely forward redline corrections, but it processes the change to decide to which category of terms the change correlates. This assertion is supported by Applicant's arguments found on pages 2-4 of Applicant's Response filed August 22, 2003. Furthermore, the recited term "analysis" is defined as the "separation of a whole into its component parts" (Merriam-Webster's Collegiate® Dictionary (10th

Ed.)). Furthermore, "context" is defined as "the parts of a discourse that surround a word or passage and can throw light on its meaning." (Please see attachment to the present Office action.) Therefore, Applicant's intended interpretation of "analysis" and "context," as set forth in both the specification and Applicant's Response filed August 22, 2003, are clearly in line with the accepted definitions of each word. As such, the claimed invention recites a more intelligent negotiations engine that performs an analysis of negotiation terms that goes beyond mere redlining.

Silverman et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,924,082) teach an interactive negotiations system between at least two human users, where the users may communicate with one another through a structured dialog; however, they fail to anticipate or suggest a negotiations engine which itself can identify the types of changes being made. Silverman et al. maintain a transcript of the negotiations session, but its central computer system does not analyze the changes to classify them by their particular term categories.

Furthermore, regarding the limitation "the automated negotiations engine indicating any changes in the terms," the Shirley et al. reference (U.S. Patent No. 5,692,206) has been cited to teach a contract generation system which allows for manual editing (e.g., redlining) of the document for customization purposes (Abstract). Unlike the Shirley et al. reference, the present invention obviates the need for manual editing, which can cause a messy presentation and be time-consuming, by implementing a negotiations engine which itself handles the recognition and indication of changes in terms to the negotiating parties.

Ordish (U.S. Patent No. 5,195,031) teaches a trading system for providing real time context sensitive trading messages based on conversation analysis; however, Ordish's invention only provides relevant prompts and alerts in response to inconsistencies in the trading conversation. Ordish does not disclose or suggest the claimed document recompilation based on the most updated terms of the contract being negotiated, including the analysis of terms which are then placed into a user supplied context.

The presently claimed invention is also deemed novel over Sloo (WO 97/04410) because Sloo merely performs a redlined mark-up of the submitted document changes. Sloo does not disclose or suggest the claimed automated document recompilation based on the most updated terms of the contract being negotiated, including the analysis of terms which are then placed into a user supplied context.

Similarly, the TRADE'ex software (disclosed in the articles "TRADE'ex Unveils Marketmaker Software for Creating Online Marketplace," "TradeAccess Sponsors First U.S. Trade Mission Web Site for Department of Commerce," "Trade'ex Readies Java-based MarketMaker," "TRADE'ex Connects the UK," "TRADE'ex Introduces E-Commerce Software for Procurement, Distribution, Virtual E-Markets," "10 Who Dared to Be Different," "Pioneering Reseller Sites," and "TRADE'ex Develops Java Compliant Electronic Commerce Solution for Creating Wholesale Markets Over the Internet") does not disclose or suggest the claimed automated document recompilation based on the most updated terms of the contract being negotiated, including the analysis of terms which are then placed into a user supplied context.

Additionally, Applicant explains in the Response filed August 22, 2003 that Kennedy (U.S. Patent No. 6,055,519) simply stores data regarding a negotiation; however, no analysis (as defined by the Applicant) of the negotiation terms is performed.

Snelgrove et al. (US 2002/0058532) teaches the use of software agents to perform negotiations among themselves (§§ 56, 76, 78, 90); however, Snelgrove is silent as to whether the software agents analyze the negotiation terms per se or just perform mere redlining; therefore, Snelgrove too is deficient in the teaching of the analysis of negotiation terms and placing them into a user supplied context for presentation to a user.

Smiga et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,029,171) teaches a method of parsing messages for purposes of collaborating among users. For example, Smiga can parse messages and identify related activities (col. 7, lines 14-20; col. 9, line 1 through col. 10, line 25). In another embodiment Smiga parses messages to negotiate a meeting date (Fig. 25B; col. 34, lines 27-58); however, Smiga's system merely presents a date change to the users while the negotiation participants are the ones who make a final decision regarding the date change. In other words, there is no analysis of negotiation terms and placing them into a user supplied context for presentation to a user, as defined by the Applicant.

Please note that all of the pending claims in the present case are indicated as allowable subject matter for the same reasons found throughout the parent applications (U.S. Patent Nos. 6,338,050; 6,336,105; 6,332,135; and 6,141,653).

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
